As of April 1, 2011, Oregon CADC’s, CGAC’s, CPS’s and friends of treatment, prevention and recovery submitted 2,742 email letters to legislators in support of Treatment, Prevention and Recovery funding through the website...

OregonTreatmentWorks.org

Then, simply enter your name, address and email in the appropriate fields. The site will automatically look-up your personal legislators (based on your address) and will send them your personalized message. Please feel free to use information from the Treatment Effectiveness Brief or local information from your county or treatment program to educate policy makers on the wisdom of investing in addiction treatment services.

New Certified Recovery Mentor (CRM) Application

ACCCB has posted the new “Certified Recovery Mentor” application on the ACCBO website (www.ACCBO.com). As systems begin to adopt “Recovery Oriented Systems of Care,” recovery mentors (peer specialists) are expected to become a big part of the changing landscape of addictions treatment and recovery support services. CADC’s who are in recovery from substance dependence can obtain this certification through September 1, 2011 without any additional education hours (above and beyond those already obtained to achieve their CADC certification).

Individuals who are not currently certified, but have been working as “recovery mentors” for more than a year, can obtain the certification by demonstrating they have met educational requirements in a variety of topical areas. After September 1, 2011 all Recovery Mentors will need to demonstrate that they have completed an “AMH Approved” training program in order to become certified.

Bath Salts: The Latest in Designer Drugs

Bath Salts are the latest designer drugs to hit the streets of the U.S. They are sold under a variety of names including Ivory Wave, White Lightning, Hurricane Charlie, Cloud 9, Ocean, Scarface, Vanilla Sky, Ocean Wave, Red Dove, White Dove and many others. These products are advertised for “Novelty Use Only” and “Not Intended for Human Consumption”. They are available for sale over the internet, at “head shops”, gas stations, tobacco shops and convenience stores. These bath salts are usually snorted to produce a “high” similar to that produced by methamphetamine, ecstasy and cocaine.

Bath Salts contain Methyleneoxyprovalerone (MDPV) and/or mephedrone. Mephedrone is additionally sold as a “research chemical” plant food or plant fertilizer. MDPV is considered to be highly addictive. The psychotropic effects of MDPV are thought to be mediated by inhibiting the reuptake of dopamine and norepinephrine into neurons, thereby resulting in an increase in the extracellular concentrations of both neurotransmitters. Mephedrone is chemically related in structure to methcathinone, a designer drug derived from cathinone. Cathinone is one of the active substances found in khat, a plant derived substance that is very popular as a stimulant in the east Africans nations of Ethiopia and Somalia as well as other countries in the Middle East.

Both MDPV and mephedrone are currently listed as “Drugs and Chemicals of Concern” by the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA). Other than the states of Florida, Louisiana and Alabama which banned these substances in January and February of 2011, it is legal to buy and sell MDPV and mephedrone. Other states are expected to ban these substances as well.

STERLING Reference Laboratories (SRL) has recently developed and validated a LC/MS/MS test to screen and confirm for the presence of both MDPV and mephedrone in urine specimens. For further information please contact STERLING Reference Laboratories 1-800-442-0438 or Info@RegTox.com
